iCore Networks and Cetrom Information Technology: Enhanced Business Solutions delivered through Strategic Alliance of Leading Technology Providers.

(Vienna, VA) Cetrom Information Technology is pleased to announce a new partnership with iCore Networks. The alliance has been made with the scope of enhancing Cetrom's comprehensive suite of IT services with the provision of iCore's voice and data services to current and prospective Cetrom customers. Since 2001, Cetrom has consistently demonstrated success in getting small and medium sized business to achieve and exceed their business goals by delivering top of line custom IT solutions. With the core business of Cetrom being in IT technologies, the company decided to partner with iCore to enhance the suite of services available to clients. This strategy will offer clients more diversity without any significant cost increases, and will allow Cetrom to maintain their focus on IT products and services.

Already recognized as a leader in the IT industry, Cetrom is always looking to develop relationships with partners that will help its client base gain access to products and services that will enhance their current use of IT to streamline their business processes. Christopher Stark, President and CEO of Cetrom states, "This relationship will help us deliver a turn key solution to all of our clients. We see this as a natural fit because our clients will benefit from the best of both worlds, as we will deliver the highest level of service available today with our IT solutions."

In response to Mr. Stark's statement, Stephen Canton, CEO of iCore states, "iCore is very selective regarding partnerships and Cetrom's demonstrated track record of success in providing world class hosted products and services makes them a perfect partner for iCore and its customers."

Cetrom will continue to capitalize on their expertise in IT solutions to help clients achieve a total technology solution encompassing all of their software needs, e-mail and data hosting, and network security initiatives. iCore will add value to Cetrom's IT services by providing a comprehensive suite of voice over IP (VOIP) services designed for small and medium sized companies

Founded in 2001 by company President and CEO, Christopher Stark, Cetrom Information Technology is a pioneer leader SaaS (Software as a Service) provider and ASP (Application Service Provider). Cetrom has consistently demonstrated success in getting small and medium sized business to achieve and exceed their business goals by delivering top of line custom IT solutions. Cetrom has grown into a multi-million dollar firm with clients across the nation. Located in Vienna, VA, Cetrom is part of the burgeoning Washington, D.C. technology corridor.

iCore Networks provides advanced application services focused on business communications needs using Voice over Internet Protocol (VoIP) technologies. VoIP allows organizations to have access to services and capabilities previously out of reach for most small to medium sized organizations. iCore services are provided through one of the most advanced and reliable networks built specifically to service business clients using VoIP technology.
